THIS MONTH IN THE ROTARIAN

Watch your mailbox for the June issue of The Rotarian magazine, which includes a compelling first-person account by Kulong Ung entitled "How I Survived Genocide and Learned to Live Again." After losing much of his family to the Khmer Rouge, the author made his way to Oregon to become a U.S. citizen, a successful entrepreneur, and a Rotarian. In 1999, he returned to Cambodia's killing fields, only to face a powerful moral dilemma.

Also in this month's Rotarian:

Giving in an Era of Scarcity - How are charities weathering the economic storm?

Fighting Back - Two Rotary clubs, in California and Ohio, face the recession head-on with determination and fresh ideas.

Up Front - German Rotarian Justus Frantz, orchestra founder

Insider - A documentary about the final push to end polio wins an Oscar nomination
